

First Speaker: William J. Dorsett is a multidisciplinary artist and advocate for the First Amendment rights of artists and performers. Working across diverse mediums—spray paints, acrylics, markers, digital art, music, film, and photography—William's creations embody passion and versatility, reflecting his commitment to artistic freedom and expression.

Speaking topic: San Diego's relationship with the 1st amendment.

Second Speaker: Audra Morgan is a San Diego-based investigative journalist and activist. She hosts a local news show and podcast called Eye of the STORM. Being face to face with the border invasion and child trafficking, Audra has witnessed the destruction of America and everything she stands for. As a “Watcher on the Wall” Audra says she is, “Following the Lord’s direction to restore God’s land back to the way He intended it to be.” As an investigative journalist and local activist, Audra fights for the rights of all God’s children, spreading truth that’s difficult to hear; being the voice for the voiceless and pushing back against the tyranny that is bleeding into every aspect of our lives. Audra says, “This is a spiritual battle, a lifelong journey – not a quick fix.”

Speaking topic: The border invasion and child trafficking.
